Women's Voices of Glynn County were treated to a guided tour of the four superfund sites in Glynn County by Daniel Parshley of the Glynn Environmental Coalition.

The tour included Carter’s Island, named for former Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter, at the Terry Creek Site’s confluence with Back River.
Governor Carter stood in solidarity with Glynn County's effort to keep pesticide out of the marsh, and the small dredged island remains on maps today as “Carter's Island”.
